

Founders Bios

Robb Innes

Mr. Innes is committed to a vision of building and expanding on the best program possible for students at Digital Vision. His extensive background in the industry, positive experiences as a student, and wealth of industry connections has given him insight into what an artist needs to excel in their career. He brings a broad range of skill sets from across the industry and knows how to create tools that improve productivity. Mr Innes attended similar film schools to the one he and Mr Stirbu have designed, and has a clear vision of what a successful digital media training facility should provide. He is excited to offer a program that is a distillation of the most effective and practical elements of the training he has experienced.

Andrei Stirbu

Mr Stirbu brings a substantial resume of qualifications to his position as co-founder of Digital Vision. He has supervised major productions, influenced many corporate decisions and has had first-hand experience with the hiring process of professional studios. Mr Stirbu has worked closely with many groups of students from various schools and programs, and helped them transition from film school into the professional environment. This diverse experience has allowed him create an outstanding educational media institute that always keeps up with industry changes and constantly expands to bring students the best education possible.